

JOHN GOLDEN, PRESIDENT OF TEXTILE UNION, DIES

Will Be Buried at His Home in Fall River, Massachusetts.

CAME TO U. S. FROM ENGLAND

Showed Conservatism on Several Occasions When He Helped to Avert Walkouts—Survived by Wife and Twenty Grandchildren.

FALL RIVER, MASS., June 9.—Word was received here today of the death in Brooklyn this morning of John Golden, general president of the United Textile Workers of America. Burial will be in this city, where he has made his home for many years.

John Golden was to the textile union labor movement of America what John Mitchell was to the mine workers—a leader who worked his way up from the ranks. He was born in Lancashire, Eng., in 1863, where, as a boy, he began work in the cotton mill. Blacklisted, he said, because of his activity in the United States in 1881, and located at Fall River, where he obtained employment at his trade.

It was in 1902, when Golden was treasurer of the National Mule Spinners' Organization of the United States and Canada, that the convention of the United Textile Workers in session at Lowell, Mass., elected him president to succeed James McKeay, and each year, for nineteen successive years, Golden has been returned as head of the union labor body with its 175,000 to 200,000 members.

During the textile strike of 1904 in Fall River, when 25,000 workers were out, Golden made an impassioned speech before the convention of the American Federation of Labor in San Francisco as a result of which, it is recorded, the A. F. of L. for the first time in its history, levied an assessment on all its members for the support of the idle men and women textile operatives of Fall River. This precedent has since been followed by the A. F. of L. in giving financial support to other affiliated striking trades.

In 1912 Golden was in charge of the textile strike, involving 30,000 workers of Lowell and Lawrence, Mass.; Paterson, N. J., and other mill centers. His conservatism was shown, it was said, on several occasions, when he helped to avert walkouts. During the Manchester, N. H., strike of 1915, he appealed for Federal mediation, and the result was a compromise, which brought all the operatives back to work.

Golden was one of the commissioners of the American union labor movement who, led by Samuel Gompers, went to Great Britain and Italy in 1915 and by speech and pen, sought to convince their overseas followers that the workers of the United States were solidly back of their government and the allies in winning the war.

Golden's home was in Fall River. He, and his wife, survives him, have twenty grandchildren.

of the American Legion, were to have caught an early morning train for Chicago. Mr. Seftliffe and Mr. Foreman were returning there, after attending a meeting of the national finance committee of the American Legion here, while Mr. Galbraith intended stopping there preliminary to starting on a speaking tour in behalf of legislation before Congress sponsored by the American Legion.

The national commander's body was escorted to the Union Station here this evening by scores of legionaries. Heading the escort was Major-General George W. Read, commander of the Fifth Army Corps Area, and his staff. Military services were held at the station.

Many telegrams expressing sorrow and condolence were received today at national headquarters of the legion, from officials and friends of the dead commander. One of the messages was from President Harding.

To Name Temporary Head.

Following the funeral at Cincinnati, members of the national executive committee will return to this city to elect one of the national vice-commanders to serve until the annual convention of the legion is held at Kansas City.

Mr. Galbraith was elected national commander of the legion last September at Cleveland, succeeding Franklin D'Oliver, of Philadelphia. He was 47 years old and was born in Watertown Arsenal, Mass.

During the war Mr. Galbraith served as colonel of the One Hundred and Forty-seventh Infantry, and won the Distinguished Service Cross, the Croix de Guerre and Croix de guerre with Palm for heroism in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, in which he was wounded.

FORT THOMAS SOLDIERS TO MEET BODY OF GALBRAITH
CINCINNATI, OHIO, June 9.—The body of Colonel F. W. Galbraith, national commander of the American Legion, on arrival here tonight, will be met by a full company of regular soldiers from Fort Thomas, Ky., and hundreds of Colonel Galbraith's business and military associates. The body will be removed immediately to Memorial Hall, where it will remain overnight in charge of a guard of honor. Tomorrow the casket will be taken to an undertaking establishment, and later returned to Memorial Hall, where it will lay in state all of Saturday forenoon.

The funeral services will be in charge of the American Legion, the Rev. John P. Hervey, former chaplain of the Thirty-seventh Division, officiating. Mrs. Galbraith, the widow, notified the legion late today that she wanted former comrades of her husband to have charge of the funeral services, which will be held Saturday probably in Music Hall.

The military procession will include the entire command of Colonel Peter K. Tryon, of Fort Thomas, Ky., and the One Hundred and Forty-seventh Infantry of the Federalized National Guard, which bears the distinction of the regiment which he commanded overseas. Governor Harry Davis, of Ohio, notified the committee that he would issue an order for the mobilization of the regiment for the funeral. Mayor John Galvin today ordered the flags at half-mast on all public buildings.

EMERY WILL SUCCEED GALBRAITH IN LEGION

(By United News.)

WASHINGTON, June 9.—John G. Emery, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, national vice-commander of the American Legion, probably will succeed Colonel F. W. Galbraith, national commander, who was killed in a motor car accident at Indianapolis, according to Richard Seelye Jones, editor of the Stars and Stripes, who has made a survey of the situation. It is believed, will be named by the national executive committee, which according to Jones, will meet immediately after Colonel Galbraith's funeral. If the interim is in Arlington National Cemetery, the committee will meet in Washington; if the body is taken to Cincinnati for burial, the meeting will be in Indianapolis.

Emery had been mentioned as a candidate to succeed Galbraith at the next national convention. He has been active in legion affairs since the organization was founded. During the war Emery was a major in the Eighteenth Infantry, First Division, and was wounded in action. He is now a commissioner of the Grand Rapids municipal government.

LEGION MEN HERE ACT TO PERPETUATE GALBRAITH'S NAME

Galbraith only a few hours before the news of the tragedy reached this city.

Guest Here Last Fall.

Colonel Galbraith was the guest of William T. Reed, of this city, last November, and during his stay here attended a meeting of Richmond Post, No. 1, later being the post's guest at the Westmoreland Club. Mr. Reed and Colonel Galbraith went on a hunting trip to the Pamunkey River at that time.

Before being elected head of the American Legion, Colonel Galbraith was commander of the legion in the State of Ohio. His home was in Cincinnati, where he was president of the Rotary Club and one of the vice-presidents of the International Association of Rotary Clubs.

Colonel Galbraith had a brilliant war record, having won the American, French and English decorations for distinguished service. He was twice wounded in the Meuse-Argonne drive, in which he commanded an Ohio regiment.

URGE LABOR FEDERATION TO CONDUCT PUBLICITY DRIVE

(By Associated Press.)

DENVER, COLO., June 9.—The American Federation of Labor was urged to conduct a publicity campaign involving the expenditure of nearly $2,500,000 by John W. Hays, president of the union-label trades department of the federation, in an address today before the department's convention. He said such action was necessary at this time to gain public support for the trades-union movement.

The campaign outlined by Mr. Hays calls for the expenditure of $212,546, covering advertisements in 346 newspapers and the expenditure of $187,800 to cover advertising in eight national magazines.

Five cents a month from each member of the federation, he said, would cover the cost of the campaign.

TULSA, OKLA., June 9.—A grand jury, ordered by District Judge Valjean Biddison, to conduct an inquiry into the race troubles here last week in which ten whites and twenty-four negroes were killed, was obtained today and immediately sworn in.

The grand jury is headed by C. A. Cloud, a Tulsa business man, and its personnel includes a minister, a barber, a banker, several business men and a retired farmer.

DECLARES HE IS INSANE IN ORDER TO SAVE NEPHEW

George K. Davis, Scion of Old Virginia Family, Started Brooklyn Courtroom by Confession.

TELLS OF STRANGE ILLUSIONS

Kinsman, Charles T. Davis, Brooklyn Manufacturer, Charged With Murder of City Detective—Counsel Asks Commitment to Asylum.

NEW YORK, June 9.—"Your Honor, I am myself not in my right mind. I like so many of my family, like my nephew there—am insane."

George H. Davis, who is declared to be the scion of an old Virginia family, started a courtroom with this confession today when, on the witness stand, he tried to save his nephew, Charles T. Davis, Brooklyn manufacturer, from legal punishment for the murder of Detective Joseph Bridgetts in Brooklyn. Counsel asked that the defendant be adjudged permanently insane, which would mean commitment to Matteawan.

The uncle, a respected electrical expert, residing at Arlington, N. J., has never been believed insane or even "queer," but under oath today he insisted upon unfolding a story of hereditary insanity which, he averred, lay heavily upon the mind of his nephew as well as his own. The prisoner sat with lips crossed, absolutely unmoved, gazing indifferently at the floor as his uncle told his strange tale.

A great fear of open spaces was one of its features; the witness said he felt it while fighting in the Indian wars.

His record for bravery was "all right," he added. Then he told of strange hallucinations that had pursued him all his life and of a wild, almost uncontrollable desire to do physical harm to imaginary enemies. He sent a second lieutenant to the hospital in a fight over nothing and broke a printer's nose—also over nothing.

"I never felt satisfied in a fight unless I heard a bone snap," he remarked in a tone that seemed casual, though his face twitched as if in pain.

The witness, a man in the late sixties, powerfully built, then told of other men in his family affected with extreme nervousness, bordering on insanity. Others were heavy drinkers and died of alcoholism.

"Have you ever killed any one," he was asked.

"Oh, yes; I killed an Indian scout whom I had caught stealing a horse. That was in the Indian wars up in the Dakotas. I had to get out of the army when I imagined a second lieutenant had injured me and beat him so badly he had to be in the hospital for two weeks."

Scapol Nearing Port.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., June 9.—The British freighter Scapol, which was damaged by collision with an iceberg off the Newfoundland coast yesterday, reported today that she was making good progress toward this port. The message said the Scapol had been able to dispense with the aid of the British steamer Ingieby, which had been standing by.
